COUNTY OWNS SMITH GALLERY

Collection Arranged by Jabez Smith, Custodian of Court House, Presented to Commissioners.

REPRESENTS HIS LIFE WORK

Speeches by W. C. McColgin, A. E. Martin, J. A. Tittsworth, Lieut.-Gov. Hall and A. L. Gary.

"Gentlemen, the county commissioners are convened in the sheriff's office this morning for the purpose of receiving from me this art gallery, which is my life's work," said Jabez Smith, custodian of the court house, this morning and as he introduced Will C. McColgin to make the presentation speech a tear trickled down the veteran's cheek.

It was an inspiring occasion and one which stirred the blood of every man, woman and child who attended the presentation exercises in the sheriff's office this morning, when the Smith art gallery was given to Rush county. Sheriff King convened the commissioners in the sheriff's office for this purpose. Jabez Smith was the proudest man in the city today and he had a right to be for this was an event in his life and incidentally it was an event in the history of the county.

Rush county today received from Mr. Smith the large collection of photos of people prominent in the history of the county and in the nation. The collection is not only valuable but interesting and all the more valuable because it is the work of one of the most patriotic and loyal men that ever carried the American flag.

Will C. McColgin in his presentation speech told how the collection was started from a picture of George Washington, which was given to Mr. Smith in 1899. Gradually by hard work and much expense Mr. Smith has added to his gallery, picture at a time, until now it is one of the most interesting and most valuable that the county could get anywhere. With every picture there is a history, and not the least interesting of this history is how Mr. Smith got possession of it. Mr. McColgin paid a high compliment to the veteran when he said that the donor was the most patriotic man who ever fought for his country, and that it was truly inspiring to see the look on the veteran's face on Memorial day. Mr. McColgin praised the work of Mr. Smith and especially his loyalty to his friends and to his home county.

County Attorney John A. Tittsworth made the speech of acceptance on behalf of the county commissioners, T. J. Humes, Charles Kelso and Charles Lyons. Mr. Tittsworth thanked Mr. Smith and said the work could not be praised too highly. He said this gallery would stand as a monument to Mr. Smith and that in the years to come it would be looked on by the people of the county as the collection arranged by one of the best and most patriotic men ever in the county. He said that in the future if any citizen should leave a memorial library or a Y. M. C. A. much of the credit would go to Mr. Smith, who has left the first memorial gift for the citizens of the county.

For the citizens of the county, A. E. Martin accepted the gift and he, too, spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Smith and the value of the collection. He said it was inspiring to the young men to know and study such a life and character as that of Mr. Smith.

"I respect this man for his loyalty to his friends and there is not one of us who does not know that when Uncle Jabe tells us he will do he can for us that he will do it," said Mr. Martin. "I respect this man further for his loyalty to his party and to the principles which he believes is right, all the time allowing others who differ with him that same privilege. But above all party affiliations we must respect this man for his loyalty to his country. And if ever we younger men are called to go into the field for our country, and I sincerely hope we never will be, may we be as loyal and true to the flag as this man has been."

Lieutenant-Governor Hall was called on and he made a few remarks praising Mr. Smith and outlining the value of the gift. A. L. Gary told Mr. Smith how much his gift was appreciated and said he believed it could be made the foundation for one of the best photographs of great men and of curios in the country.

After the exercises were over Mr. Smith was the center of the large crowd which had assembled and as people congratulated him, the look of happiness and appreciation on his face was good to see. And now the Smith Art Gallery is a part of Rush county's possessions and as in the past it will be one of the interesting places for court house visitors.

THIS BOLD THIEF ROBBED CRADLE

Took Go-Cart and All the Accoutrements From Lewis Saddler's Front Porch.

AND BABY CAN NOT WALK YET

Robbing the cradle! That's what it was, and even worse than taking candy from a baby. Somebody took the go-cart and all the accoutrements from the front porch at the home of Lewis Saddler in West Fifth street, last night. In the baby carriage were several pillows and other paraphernalia found in cabs. There is no trace of the thief and the parents and baby are much put out—the parents because the go-cart cost $12 and the baby because it is not able to walk yet.

The members of the First Baptist church Sunday school enjoyed an all-day picnic in Link's grove east of the city yesterday. Over fifty attended and an elaborate dinner was spread at noon.

The afternoon was spent in games, the most attractive feature being the sprinting of Rev. Meyers, pastor of the church. Ed Barnes, living in this county, gave an exhibition of trick horseback riding, which would put the average professional wild west man to shame.

The meeting of the Indiana Presbytery of the United Presbyterian church being held in conjunction with the annual State convention of the Young People's Christian Union at Milroy was begun today. Delegates from many points in the State flocked into the town today for the first program which will be held tonight.

The Indiana Presbytery includes about sixteen congregations, mostly in the southern part of the State, all of which are represented at the meeting now in session.

Wash Allen, who was elected delegate from the local congregation, was unable to attend and the alternate, Will Cherry, was unable to get away from his business, so that Rev. W. H. Clark was the only representative of the United Presbyterian church.

The convention will have its opening tonight with a short program which includes a short prayer and praise service led by Miss Lena Logan of Springhill, and an address on "Young People and Civic Rightness," by Rev. W. H. Patterson of Princeton. Rev. Patterson is a recognized authority on the young people's work in the society and an excellent address is anticipated.

A session will be held tomorrow morning, afternoon and night. The program includes several unusually good addresses and also many interesting talks by prominent ministers.

BICYCLE WAS ON A JOY RIDE

Willie Bennett "borrowed" Walter Smith's wheel from in front of the Miller law building this afternoon and he had not gone far until he came to grief. He collided with a large touring car from Shelbyville, driven by Mr. Cole of Virginia, who is visiting there, throwing Young Bennett several feet. The front wheel of the bicycle was broken and the driver of the machine promptly settled with the owner of the wheel.

LOSES HIS WAY IN MOUNTAINS

Former Rushville Boy Becomes Separated From His Companions and is in Bad Way.

HE SCALES WALL AND ESCAPES

Scott C. Armstrong Tells Some Interesting Experiences he Had While With Army in Cuba.

Scott C. Armstrong, formerly of this city, was here yesterday, and when urged to do so told some interesting things about his life in the army. He spent three years in the regular army, completing his time early last month. He was a non-commissioned officer in Company I Signal Corps, U. S. A. and was stationed at Fort San Huston, at San Antonio, Texas, and spent some time with the pacification army in Cuba.

For several months he was in charge of the military telegraph station at Holquin, Cuba, and for seven months was a telegraph operator in the cable office at Havana. During his time in Cuba, Armstrong became well acquainted with the Cuban people and says they are the most ungracious people in the world. He says they do not appreciate what the Americans have done for them and they only respect the American soldier because they have to.

While on a maneuver in the Pinar del Rio country, Armstrong who went with a detachment into the mountains to signal other troops, he became separated from the others in the detachment and for a time it looked bad for him. He was completely lost and was in a deep hole. He was compelled to scale a wall which was almost perpendicular and which was several hundred feet high to get back to his companions.

Armstrong is much taken with the city of Havana and says it is one of the cleanest cities he has ever visited. He says the streets there are swept night and day. Oil is poured on every wet spot found in the streets in order to kill the mosquitoes which are diminishing in number all the time.

Armstrong learned to speak Spanish fluently while in Cuba. He visited Morro Castle and Cabanas Fortress and saw many interesting things in connection with the early history of the island. The old instruments of torture are still to be seen in the dungeons and Armstrong gives an interesting account of this phase of his observation.

The young man is well pleased with his life in the army, but says he has had enough of it and will now locate in Indianapolis.

WILSON GIVEN GREAT OVATION

When he Made First Appearance at Track at State Fair Behind Famous Pair.

FAILED TO LOWER THE RECORD

Dick Wilson, driving the famous full brother and sister, Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C was the big attraction at the State fair in Indianapolis yesterday. He drove the pair to the pole to beat the world's and incidentally their own record of 2:02 3/4. They failed in the attempt after two trials, but gave a very pretty exhibition. The first trial was made in 2:07 flat and in thirty minutes another mile was covered by the team in 2:04, only 1/4 seconds slower than their mile at Grand Rapids.

Wilson was given a great ovation when he made his first appearance on the track seated on the light bike behind the fast pair. Rush county turned out by the hundreds yesterday to witness the big event and the cars on the I. & C. were taxed to their utmost to hold the throngs of people who journeyed to the Capitol city.

DORA MATLOCK IS FREE AGAIN

Alleged Bootleggers Turned Out of Jail When Affidavit is Found to be Faulty.

NEWSOM CHARGE IS QUASHED

Colored Man Who Faced Assault and Battery Count Need Not Appear in Court.

Dora Matlock, alleged bootlegger, is again a free man after being tossed about by the local officers three or four times. He was released from the county jail today when it was found that the affidavit against him had not been signed.

Matlock was arrested about the same time Orpheus Taylor was caught on the fair ground. Taylor was fined and is now serving his sentence. After being in jail over Sunday, Matlock was released when it was found there was no affidavit against him. The city officials then passed the case up, but Matlock was arrested again thirty minutes later by Sheriff King. He has been in jail since until today, when it was found that the affidavit was faulty and Judge Sparks ordered him released.

When James Newsom, the colored man charged with assault and battery on Ray Lakin, did not show up this morning at the time set for his trial in the circuit court, his bondsman became worried and saw visions of $250 gone to smash. They heard that Newsom was not yet in the city and hurried to the court house to hear the worst. But when they got there Judge Sparks eased them considerably when he told them the case had been quashed. Charles Frazee and R. P. Havens were the bondsmen.

The case of the State of Indiana ex rel. Osa Shedd against Walter Matlock was dismissed in the circuit court today when it was shown that the child was dead and the mother is now the wife of Oliver G. Hudson.

The case of W. H. Morris against Jesse Shelton, demanding $100 on account was dismissed today at the plaintiff's costs.

Moses W. Davis was adjudged a person of unsound mind by the court this morning after the evidence was heard and Ira Davis was appointed his guardian, giving a $20,000 bond.

The divorce suit of Laura E. Marshall against Oscar M. Marshall was dismissed today and peace reigns again in the Marshall home.

PEARY ALSO HAS NAILED OLD GLORY TO THE POLE

Second Astonishing Message On April 6, Last, Robert E. Peary Reached the Top of the World.

New York, Sept. 7.—The following dispatch was received here Monday: "Indian Harbor (Via Cape Ray, N. F.) Sept. 6. "To Associated Press," New York: "Stars and Stripes nailed to north pole. PEARY."

London, Sept. 7.—The Reuter Telegram Company has received the following message, dated Indian Harbor, Labrador (via wireless telegraph to Cape Ray, N. F.): "Stars and Stripes nailed to north pole. PEARY."

New York, Sept. 7.—Commander Peary announces April 6 as the date of his reaching the north pole in a dispatch to the New York Times, reading as follows: "Indian Harbor, via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 6.

"To the New York Times, New York: "I have the pole April 6th. Expect arrive Chateau Bay Sept. 7. Secure control wire for me there and arrange expedite transmission big story. "PEARY."

The date referred to by Peary is April of the present year, although not stated in the present dispatch, as his expedition to the pole did not leave until July, 1908.

South Harpswell, Me., Sept. 7.—Commander Robert E. Peary announced his success in discovering the north pole, to his wife, who is summering at Eagle Island here, as follows in a dispatch from Indian Harbor: "Have made good at last. I have the old pole. Am well. Love. Will wire again from Chateau.—BERT."

In replying Mrs. Peary sent the following dispatch: "All well. Best love. God bless you. Hurry home.—JO."

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 7.—Dr. D. W. Abercrombie, principal of Worcester academy, has received the following dispatch from Indian Harbor, Newfoundland: "Top of the earth reached at last. Greetings to faculty and boys.—D. McMillan."

Donald E. McMillan was an instructor in mathematics and physical training at the academy until the close of the school last year, when he was granted a leave of absence of two years to go with the Peary expedition to the north pole.

Freeport, Me., Sept. 7.—Confirmation of Peary's success was received here in a telegram from Indian Harbor from D. B. McMillan, who accompanied Peary. The message, sent to McMillan's sister, Mrs. W. C. Fogg, the local postmistress, says: "Arrived safe. Pole on board. Best year of my life.—Ben."

Copenhagen, Sept. 7.—When the report that Commander Peary had discovered the north pole reached here Dr. Cook said: "I hope the news is correct. If Peary has reached the pole his description of that region will confirm mine."

New York, Sept. 7.—"Stars and Stripes nailed to the north pole!" Peary has succeeded.

From out of the Arctic darkness there was flashed this message which stunned the scientific world, and thrilled the heart of every layman. From the bleak coast of Labrador Peary gave to the world the news that he had attained his goal in the far north, while at the same moment in far-off Denmark, Dr. Frederick A. Cook of Brooklyn was being dined and lionized by royalty for the same achievement.

Undenially Yankee grit has conquered the frozen north and there has been created a coincidence such as the world will never see again. Two Americans have planted the flag of their country in the land of ice which man has sought to penetrate for four centuries, and each ignorant of the other's conquest, has flashed within a period of five days a laconic message of success to the waiting world.

Cook in his first message to his countrymen was brief but non-committal; Peary was even briefer, but specific. "Stars and Stripes nailed to the north pole," he said. That was all, but never before have so few words conveyed to a people a greater meaning or a greater patriotic satisfaction.

On Sept. 1 Dr. Cook sent out from the Shetland Islands the first message of his success, a message which has aroused a storm of controversy around the world. Monday Robt. E. Peary, lost from view in the land of ice and unheard from since August, 1908, startled the world by a similar message sent from Indian Harbor, Labrador. There was no qualification; it left no doubt. It announced unequivocally that he had reached the top of the world. Thus two flags with the Stars and Stripes of the United States are floating in the ice packs proving the courage of the intrepid Americans.

With but a word from Peary the world waits breathlessly for details. He should arrive at Chateau Bay, Labrador, today, when these details will be forthcoming.

How the News Came.

First word of Peary's success reached New York in a dispatch to the Associated Press. It contained the bare announcement of his finding the pole. Almost simultaneously he had transmitted the news to London, repeating dramatically and simply: "Stars and Stripes nailed to the north pole." At the same time he similarly advised the governor of Newfoundland.

Both the old and the new world were thus apprised of his great achievement practically at the same moment, and the excitement which followed attests to the high pitch of interest aroused over this climax of man's perseverance. Newspaper extras were rushed from the press and those who read marveled at the twist of the universe which had snatched the ice mask from the north in so strange a manner.

Like Dr. Cook's first message, Peary's was taciturn in its briefness and the waiting public, stimulated by Cook's success, was left unsatisfied. For as did Dr. Cook, Peary resumed his homeward voyage immediately after filing the curt news of discovery.

A few words were added to this meager information in a message to Herbert L. Bridgman of Brooklyn, secretary of the Peary Arctic club: "Pole reached. Roosevelt safe.—Peary."

This gave assurance that the vessel in which Peary departed had passed through the ice unscathed, but details of his homecoming and the date of the discovery of the pole were still lacking. It was not until the New York Times had received a dispatch later in the afternoon that these vital points were cleared up. The message said: "I have the pole April 6. Expect arrive Chateau Bay Sept. 7."

With this information at hand it was a comparatively simple matter to ascertain that the April 6 referred to was April of the present year, as his expedition did not start from New York until July 7, 1908.

April 6, 1909—the date that Peary planted the flag at the pole, and April 21, 1908, the date that Dr. Cook unfurled the Stars and Stripes, a year before, consequently become the cardinal dates upon which exploration of the far north will rest hereafter.

From the time Peary wrote his last letters home from his depot of supplies at Etah in August, 1908, until he flashed the magic words from Indian Harbor, nothing was known of the fight he had been making across the frozen crust of the north. At Etah Peary had established a station for training Eskimos and dogs and accumulating supplies. On former expeditions it had been his plan to take his ships as far north as he could penetrate and there put into winter quarters, using Etah as a base of supplies. The expeditions proper all started from wherever winter quarters chanced to be.

This time he divided his party into three groups—one to make geological observations, another to take meteorological notations, and a third of five or six picked men with dogs for the last dash to the pole, while the first two followed more slowly as supporting parties and establishing some bases of supplies for the return trip.

Whether Peary feared he might not return, no one knows. At any rate he voiced only his hopes, but when the Roosevelt turned her prow northward in the summer of 1908, he left behind a record of his explorations and letters to friends to be opened if he never came back.

Discoverer of Pole Glad Feat Has Been Duplicated.

AN ASTONISHING COINCIDENCE

That Two Americans Should Within Less Than a Week Announce the Culmination of Centuries of Struggle Is So Amazing as to Electrify the Whole World—Dr. Cook in the Midst of Copenhagen Reception Expresses Pleasure at His Foremost Rival's Wonderful Success.

Copenhagen, Sept. 7.—The report of Commander Peary's announcement that he had reached the north pole simply electrified Copenhagen. Dr. Cook was immensely interested, and said: "That is good news. I hope Peary did get to the pole. His observations and reports on that region will confirm mine."

Asked if there was any probability of Peary's having found the tube containing his records, Dr. Cook replied: "I hope so, but that is doubtful on account of the drift."

Dr. Cook added: "Commander Peary would have reached the pole this year. Probably while I was in the Arctic region last year his route was several hundred miles east of mine. We are rivals, of course, but the pole is good enough for two."

"That two men got to the pole along different paths," continued the explorer, "should furnish large additions to scientific knowledge. Probably other parties will reach it in the next ten years, since every explorer is helped by the experience of his predecessors, just as Sverdrup's observations and reports were of immeasurable help to me. I can say nothing more, without knowing further details, than that I am glad of it."

While Dr. Cook was conversing casually with American friends, the possibility of the denouement which electrified the world was laughingly suggested. Dr. Cook remarked: "It is quite possible that Peary will turn up now. He is about due to get back, if he carries out his plans. We have always been friends, while of course we are rivals in the attempt to find the pole, but we have been friendly rivals."

Those who have had the best opportunities to become acquainted with Dr. Cook here believe that he is not likely to enter into a controversy with Commander Peary.

Sverdrup, who came here for the purpose of congratulating Dr. Cook, was most interested in the news that Peary had reached the pole. Sverdrup is a remarkably taciturn and careful man. He said: "There is nothing I can say about this particularly, except that it is most important and wonderful. It seems to me that America is doing wonderfully if two Americans are the first men to get to the pole after such long struggles by so many men of different nationalities."

If any evidence is needed to establish Denmark's valuation of Dr. Cook it can be found in the fact that he is to receive the two highest possible official tokens within its gift. The king is to confer on him the gold medal of merit with the crown, which only three other geographers, Nansen, Sven Hedin and Amundson, are entitled to wear, and the Geographical Society will bestow upon him its gold medal, which has been given to four other travellers only, Nansen, Captain Scott, Hedin and Sverdrup.

The Geographical Society of Denmark numbers among its members more experts in Arctic research than any other body in the world. That branch of geographic science is its specialty. Its decision to extend the honor to Dr. Cook, like the government's to give him an official welcome, was not formed without deliberation. The rector of the University of Copenhagen, who is one of the leading lights of the society and a man of profound learning, interviewed Dr. Cook for an hour. He questioned the explorer minutely, and on coming out of the legation expressed his firm belief in the truth of the explorer's statements.

The longer Dr. Cook remains in Copenhagen, and the more people see of him, the more completely is his standing established. Your correspondent heard him cross-examined by competent questioners half a dozen times. His replies were so quick, coherent and detailed that if he is a romancer he is one of the greatest in history. The only time the explorer seemed to display impatience was when speaking of one of his critics he said, quickly: "He is an old man; then he apparently forgot that my expedition began about where his ended."

Charles E. Wilson Dead.

Lebanon, Ind., Sept. 7.—Colonel Charles E. Wilson, who acted as private secretary to former Governor Mount and former Governor Durbin, died at his home in this city last night. His death was due to a paralytic stroke.

PREPARING A WELCOME

New York Planning to Give Peary a Rousing Homecoming.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Peary Arctic club, the Explorers' club and the Arctic club today began preparations for the celebration of the return of the successful explorer. Peary's exploit could not be discussed from a scientific viewpoint because details of his dash to the pole are lacking. How fast he traveled, what great obstacles he met and overcame, what observations he took, and what data he brings back with him is as unavailable as if he were still in the frozen north. It is noted generally, however, that the homecoming of the two explorers, practically at the same time, will afford an opportunity for the comparison of records never heretofore presented. For 400 years man has struggled to reach the pole, and now two Americans bring back with them chronicles of their discovery and observations of the land of mystery.

Cook's achievement has been questioned and he has been charged by staunch supporters of Commander Peary with conduct unethical for what they termed his following in secrecy a route which Peary had in view. Each faction now, however, has its laurels, and with animosity buried the world at large will profit therefrom.

The Tennis Tournament.

Cincinnati, Sept. 7.—Three tri-state championships were decided Monday in the big tennis tourney here, Robert Leroy of New York successfully defending his title in men's singles, and Mrs. Edith Hannam of Toronto winning out in ladies' singles, while the championship in ladies' doubles went to Misses Martha Kinsey and Adele Kruse of this city.

The Mexican Flood Death List.

Mexico, Sept. 7.—General Trevie places the deaths for the state of Nuevo Leon in the recent floods officially at 1,500. A number of towns on the Rio Grande have not yet been heard from. The towns of Aldama de Cos and Aramberri are reported destroyed, making ten towns in all partially or wholly destroyed by the recent floods.

Rev. Geo. B. Walls pastor of the M. E. church preached a very able sermon on the "Manifestation of Christ to Humanity." The things which show one to be born of the spirit was clearly shown by the pastor in the progress of sermon. The audience was quite appreciative. Bro. Walls will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday night of the 11th.

Everybody cordially invited to be present especially the members for the pastor has some farewell remarks to make.

M. L. Iles, a young man who was reared in this vicinity, passed through here enroute to the Fayette county free fair, where he could see his old friends and relatives. Mr. Iles was formerly Dr. H. H. Elliott's groom, which position he filled creditably. He then was clerk in a hardware store, filling this position as he filled the other. He was correspondent for a county paper; he attended business college in Lexington; then was bookkeeper for Mr. Haywood, who was State agent for the McCormick binder. He served in this position creditably for many years and then resigned to accept a similar place with the Deering company, and now has a similar position with the John Deere Plow company. He was just returning from a two weeks tour in Ohio, making settlements with customers. For about two years his health has been impaired and the company has been giving his traveling business to attend to. His health now, if one may judge from his looks, is almost perfect. His many friends rejoice with him on the return of his health.

Mrs. Hinchman and Mrs. Mary A. Mapes are gradually growing better.

A young lady was making an exhibit of her skill in smoking cigarettes at the I. & C. station not long ago. She could almost smoke them as fast as her escort could make them. This shows progress. The time is not far distant when the county fairs will be compelled to offer premiums in smoking.

Miss Mabel Adams called on Miss Gwen Murphy of Connorsville and attended the county fair.

Melville Gray, who has been visiting in Michigan this summer since he made his assessor's report, was home for a few days, and has returned to Michigan.

Earl Hinchman, who had a sorrel horse stolen last spring, has finally found his horse. He will be returned in a few days. It is believed that a former employe of Mr. Hinchman was the thief. As Marshall Hinchman, Sr., an uncle of Earl, saw this man in Rushville a few days after the horse was taken from the stable, he remarked to him that Earl had old "Dock" stolen and he believed he saw him go through Liberty the day before. This man had just completed the sale of the horse that he got in a trade for old Dock. The man that traded for old Dock said the man told him that old Dock belonged to Earl Hinchman and he was handling him on a commission. The gentleman lives near Oldenburg. He hates to give up old Dock, but will bring him home as soon as he completes his fall plowing. There are a number of people in this vicinity who will identify the horse as Mr. Hinchman's.

Tuesday, September 7, 1909.

Now that the north pole has again been reached by Peary, the United States has it doubly cinched.

It may be observed, however, that Nansen's "Farthest North" was not quite far enough north to suit our enterprising American explorers.

The straw hat is on its last legs, or rather on its last heads. The katydid has triumphed and soon straw hats will no longer show which way the wind blows.

Dr. Cook and Lieut. Peary's discovery of the north pole will put a few lecture routes out of whack, as well as give the scientists something new to wrangle over.

Senator Taylor's confession that he has pulled down a quarter million of Chautauqua coin indicates that the Chautauqua millionaire will soon be along, and W. J. B. may be his initials.

The discovery of the north pole will enable the science to weigh the earth, even if you can't exactly figure out that it's going to get you anything to know how much the old ball weighs.

The newspapers continuously chronicle loss of money from fire, thieves or accidents in sums varying from $5 to $5000—sometimes the savings of years, sometimes the proceeds of sales of income from salary—but in every case, the loser has attempted to care for the money without recourse to a bank. This banking in old stockings, under carpets, between mattresses, or in holes in the ground, is simply an invitation to loss, and is therefore the height of folly. In these days of banking facilities one should not carry any considerable sum over night, and for many persons $25 is a considerable sum.

Dr. Cook's report so far says nothing of the subterranean passage which Mme Diss DeBar has just said leads from the north pole to a region in the Himalayas where the great God Mahatma dwells. Maybe Lieut. Peary will substantiate the fact. Perhaps Capt. Andre and his balloon dropped into the opening of that subterranean passage since not a single sign of him has ever been discovered up to this time.

Now that the schools are about to open, it may be well to remember that to the student and teacher school means close application to duty every day. No student can hope to get along without making his classroom work of first importance. To get along well means diligence every day and an honest endeavor to be in complete harmony with the school. The boy who gets along well in school usually gets along well after he gets through school. But no student can get along well without work. The teacher must work, too, to achieve anything worth while for the pupils. All must work together in harmony and when that is done much will be accomplished. Get down to business at the beginning of the term and keep up with the procession throughout the year.

Things of Human Interest

Miss Sue Gregg in looking over some old papers recently came across an interesting document. It was an old tax receipt which some relative had received, and it was dated 1851. It was for the taxes on 900 acres of Rush county land, and the tax was just $76. That's a fair example of how Rush county land has increased in value.

Just as an example of impudence of blackbirds a man in East Eighth street tells an interesting incident. He thought he had devised a plan to keep the pesky things out of his trees. He tied big cow bells on small twigs in the trees so that when the birds sat on the twigs it would ring the bells. It worked all right for a few nights and then the birds began to get on speaking terms with the bells. Now they are roosting on the bells even and seem to enjoy it more than roosting on an ordinary limb.

"Will you please take that want ad of mine out of the Republican," said Frank Windler, who is selling pickles. "Why do you want it out?" he was asked.

"Why I can't keep up with the orders since I put that want ad in. Women have been telephoning me almost constantly since I put that in and every time I hear the telephone bell ring I begin to figure out how many pickles I can let somebody have. Too much demand for pickles since I advertised them. Take the ad out."

John G. Gartin came near causing indigestion in Whitehead's restaurant the other day. And it was because he had a good piece of watermelon. The place was crowded just at noon and when this unusual performance was pulled off people stopped eating and watched Mr. Gartin. And really while it was perfectly all right it did look a bit funny. After he had finished the watermelon he asked the waiter for a napkin. So far so good, but his next move nearly took the waiter off his feet and caught a lot of jaws just in the act of crunching the kind of pie that Verne Norris likes. He scraped the seeds off into the napkin. Then he moved down the counter and repeated the performance over the remains of somebody else's watermelon. Then when he saw everybody looking at him he thought he had better explain.

"You see I have 160 acres of good land which I drew out West and I may move out there next spring, who knows? And then after I get out there I might take a notion to have some good Hoosier watermelons. Who knows about that either? In that case you see these seeds would come in handy," and the prospective westerner walked out stuffing the napkin full of seeds in his pocket.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

SWINDLER IN TOILS.

(New Castle Courier.)

Thomas Hamilton, an alleged smooth citizen, is in the Henry county jail in default of $1000 bond, awaiting trial on the charge of forgery. He is a man with a record, according to Detective Webster of Indianapolis, who trapped the man at Columbus, Ohio, Saturday night, where he had worked his game.

About two weeks ago the Citizens National bank at Knightstown received a telegram instructing it to honor the draft of Thomas Hamilton for $37. In a day or two Mr. Hamilton came along and cashed the draft. It finally developed that Mr. Hamilton was a swindler, and the bank officials referred the matter to the Indiana Bank Association and detectives were assigned the case.

DOLLAR DECIDED IT.

(Columbus Republican.)

When the county commissioners met for the September session Monday morning they were confronted by a number of bids and contractors were as thick as flies in August.

The bids were opened for the construction of the Chambers ditch in Flatrock township and it was found that while John Beatty bid $490, Norton & Meredith bid exactly the same amount. The commissioners hardly knew what to do when each bidder had offered to do the work for the same amount, so the contractors agreed to match coins. Mr. Beatty held a dollar and Mr. Meredith failed to match him. The contract was then awarded to Mr. Beatty.

CONNERSVILLE "DRY."

(Connerville Examiner.)

When the three saloons which have been having a monopoly on the wet goods business in Connerville for the last month closed their doors Saturday night the old town went dry so far as the legal sale of intoxicants is concerned.

Saturday night was a pretty wet night as many seemed to feel that it would be their last chance to indulge and they "got a plenty while they were a 'gittin'."

One or two saloon men think they should have been allowed to run Tuesday, because their licenses did not expire until Tuesday night. That is the way their licenses are dated, but it seems that they did not take their licenses out until a day after they were granted last year, and the mayor holds that the licenses are good for a year from the day they were granted, and not a year from the date the saloon men took them out.

SCHOOL NOTES

The list of books published in the papers yesterday are the ones designated for the county schools. The list for the city schools will be published Thursday.

Children who are not six years old before January 1, 1910, will not be admitted at this opening of the schools. Parents will find it the best for the child if it is six years old or over before starting to school. Children six years old and well developed will do well to begin school, but those in poor health will be gaining time by postponing the start to school until older and in good health.

"The purpose of our system of free common schools must continue to be chiefly culture for the individual and the transmission to posterity of the results of investigations and deliberations of the past. Our free schools must advance along the lines of educational democracy in the sense that they must provide equal educational opportunities for all. Although they must give practical preparation not only for the professions, but also for commercial life, the demands of any part of the business world that courses of study be subordinated to particular interests is not in accord with the proper aims of a national system of common schools."—Declaration of Principles by the National Educational Association.

The per capita consumption of tobacco is lower in Italy than in any other European country, being a trifle over a pound.

Of $15,000,000 paid last year by Egypt for the whole line of machinery and metals, only $300,000 went to the United States.

Peary in Arctic Region

Commander Robert E. Peary, who yesterday startled the world with the announcement of the discovery of the north pole, has won fame as an explorer and has made several efforts to reach the pole. His last expedition for the north left New York July 6, 1908, and the last words received from him were that prospects were good.

Commander Peary was born at Cresson, Pa., in 1856, and was educated at Bowdoin College.

His former arctic explorations are as follows:

1898—Reconnaissance of Grant Island ice cape, east of Disco Bay, 70 degrees north latitude.

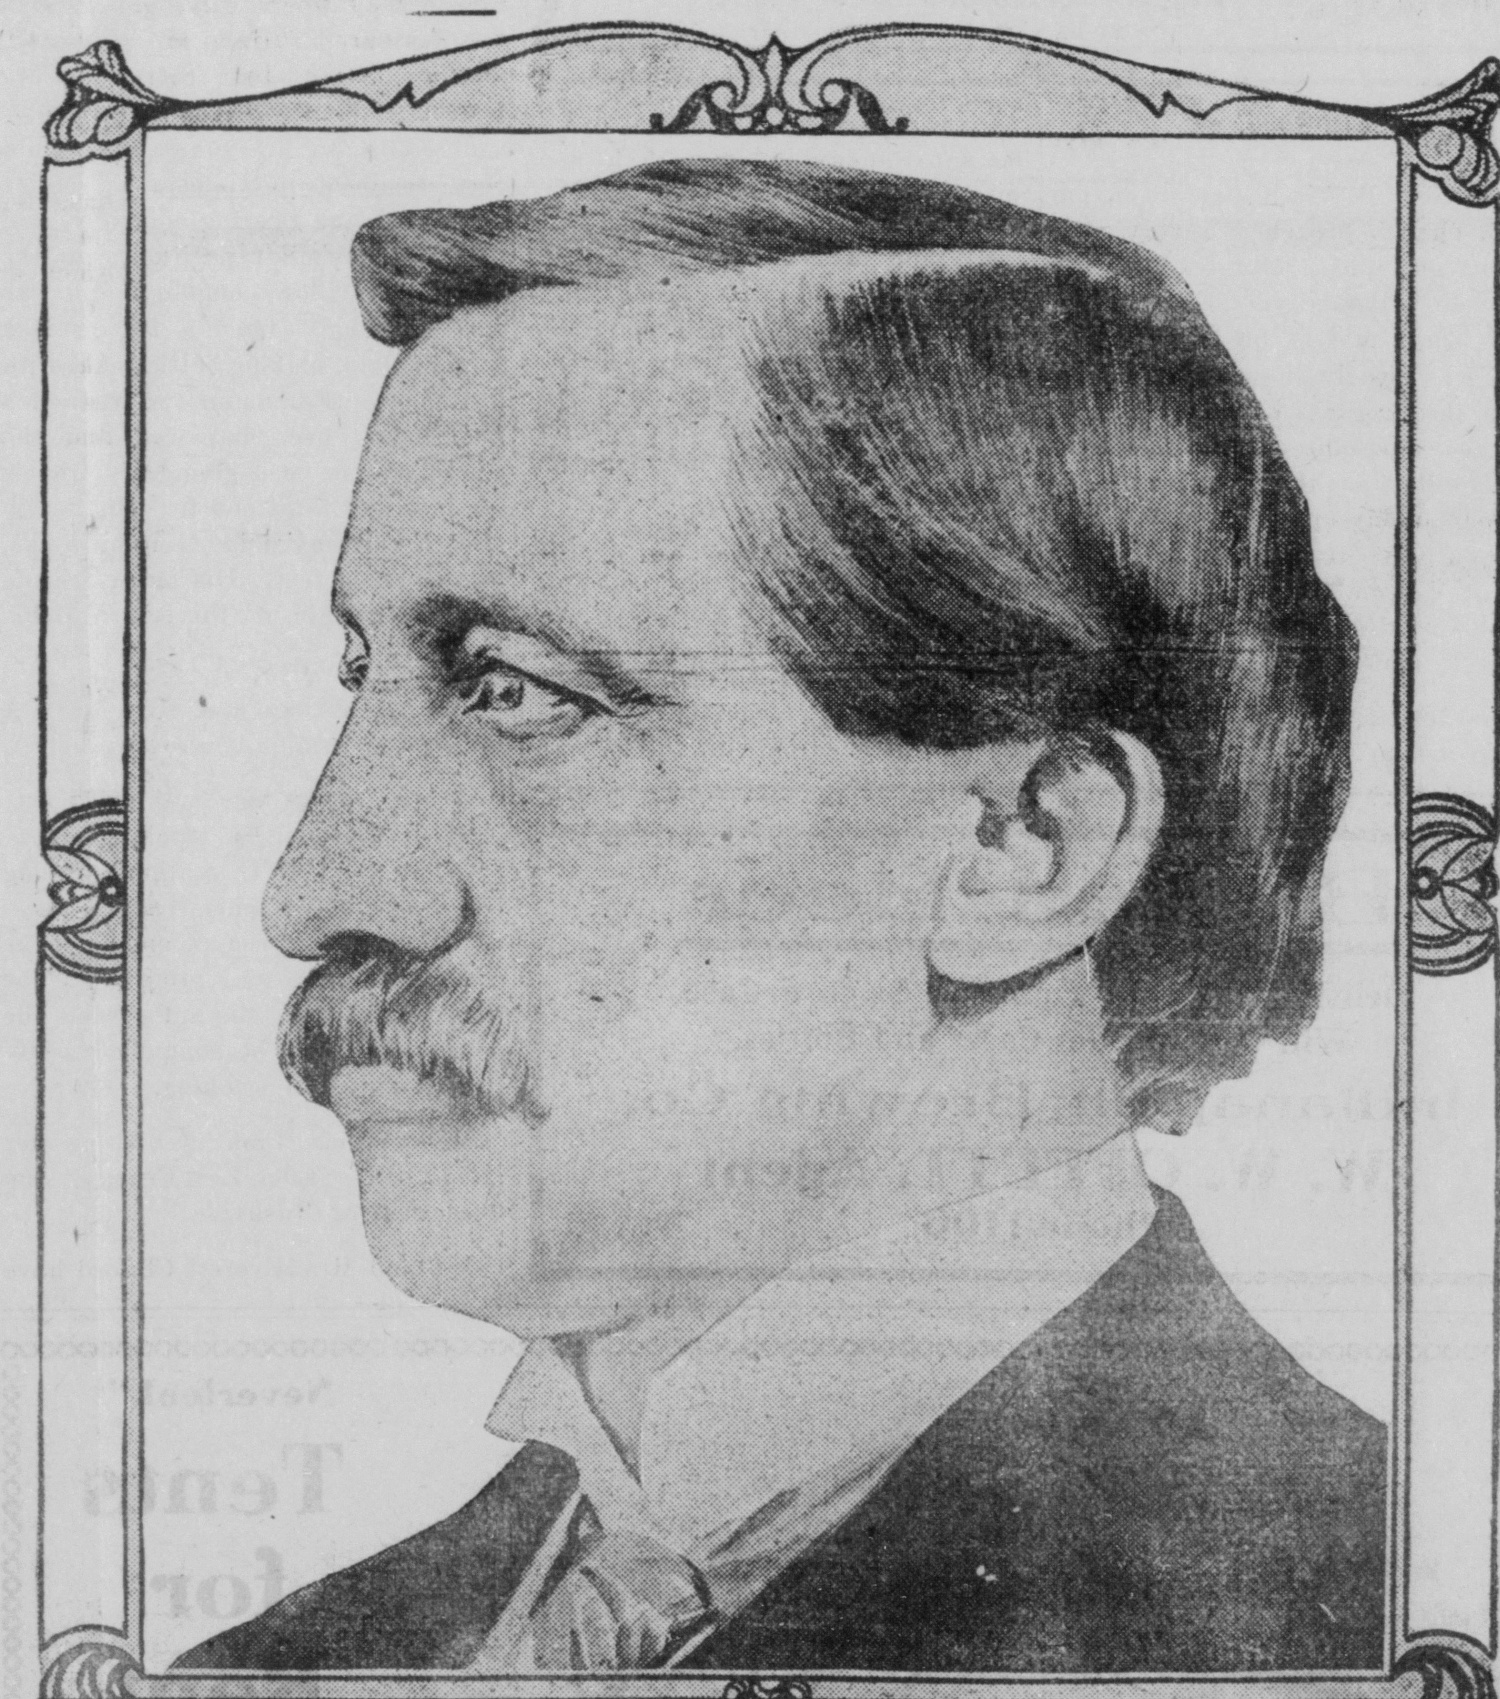

1891-92 Chief of arctic expedition of Academy of Natural Science of Philadelphia to northeast angle of Greenland, reaching Independence Bay, 81 degrees 37 minutes north latitude; discovered Melville Land and Heilprin Land and determined insularity of Greenland.

1893-95—Made thorough study of arctic highlanders and discovered Iron Mountain; failed to reach northern end of Greenland.

1896-97—Made summer voyages to bring Cape York meteorites to United States.

1898-1902—Commanded expedition under auspices Peary Arctic Club; rounded northern extremity of Greenland; named most northerly cape in the world—Cape Morris, at 83 degrees 39 minutes north latitude—and attained "farthest north" in western hemisphere, 84 degrees 17 minutes north latitude.

1906—Reached 87 degrees 6 minutes, closest point to pole attained up to that time.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the American explorer who discovered the north pole, got his first arctic experience with Robert E. Peary, that other intrepid American who is now somewhere in the arctic battling with the ice and snow on a similar undertaking. Dr. Cook went with Peary on the polar expedition of 1891-2 as surgeon. He devised a route then by which he was convinced the goal could be reached, and in the years that intervened between his first and last arctic expeditions he never ceased to study the problem. He conquered Mount McKinley, in Alaska, after several attempts and went as surgeon with the Danish expedition to the antarctic seas. It was on July 4, 1907, that he undertook his second arctic expedition, which was destined to be crowned with success. John R. Bradley, a wealthy New York hunter of big game, fitted out a fishing schooner and went with Dr. Cook to the polar regions to hunt. They intended to steal a march on Peary and went quietly about their preparations. The hunt over, Bradley returned to New York and Dr. Cook started for the pole accompanied by a company of Eskimos.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand offers tonight the great feature film, "A Maid of the Mountains." The scenes are taken in the mountainous backwoods of Kentucky, where there has been scenes of many stirring romantic stories, and in offering this remarkable subject to his patrons, the manager feels that he has a picture which is bound to win the applause of every one. The romantic love story, the exciting rides through the woods, the fight in the cave of the moonshiners, and the struggle "twixt love and duty" all tend to make it one of the most intensely interesting films ever brought to this city. There will also be shown the pictures of Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C. with Dick Wilson up. This picture was taken on the race track at Grand Rapids, Mich., when they lowered the world's record and made it in 2:02<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>. Mr. Earl Robertson will sing "Art Dreams Never Told."

The Palace theater presents an entire change of program tonight in that great western melodrama, "A Prairie Town Romance." This reproduction is full of human thrills and shows the far-away western life. This is a Selig reproduction and is now inflammable. Miss Iva Brown will sing "Aint You Glad You're Going to Alabama Sue."

"The Game Keeper's Son," and "Wonderful Rose Designs" are the titles of the pictures to be shown at the Vaudeville tonight. They are both said to be excellent subjects and highly entertaining. The first is a drama with many thrilling climaxes. Leon Maxey will sing the illustrated song "Little One Goodbye."

When you have piles don't fail to use Manzan, the great pile remedy. The only real way to cure this annoying trouble is to apply something that will act on all parts affected. That is what Manzan does. It is put up in a tube with nozzle attached. Sold at Lytle's drug store.

CHAPTER XX.

At the River.

They found the ranchhouse as Marion and Dickie had left it, deserted. Puss told them every one was at the river. McCloud did not approve Dickie's plan of going down to see her cousin first. "Why not let me ride down and manage it without bringing you into it at all?" he suggested. "It can be done." And after further discussion it was so arranged.

McCloud and Smith had been joined by Dancing on horseback, and they made their way around Squaw lake and across the fields. The fog was rolling up from the willows at the bend. Men were chopping in the brush, and McCloud and his companion soon met Lance Dunning riding up the narrow strip of sand that held the river off the ranch.

McCloud greeted Dunning, regardless of his amazement, as if he had parted from him the day before. "How are you making it over here?" he asked. "We are in pretty good shape at the moment down below, and I thought I would ride over to see if we could do anything for you. This is what you call pretty fair water for this part of the valley, isn't it?"

Lance swallowed his astonishment. "This isn't water, McCloud; this is hell." He took off his hat and wiped his forehead. "Well, I call this white, anyway, and no mistake—I do, indeed, sir! This is Whispering Smith, isn't it? Glad to see you at Crawling Stone, sir." Which served not only to surprise but to please Whispering Smith.

"Some of my men were free," continued McCloud; "I switched some mattresses and sacks around the Y, thinking they might come in play here for you at the bend. They are at your service if you think you need them."

"Need them!" Lance swore fiercely and from the bottom of his heart. He was glad to get help from any quarter and made no bones about it. Moreover, McCloud lessened the embarrassment by explaining that he had a personal interest in holding the channel where it ran, lest a change above might threaten the approaches already built to the bridge; and Whispering Smith, who would have been on terms with the cattish if he had been flung into the middle of the Crawling Stone, contributed at once, like a re-enforced spring, to the ease of the situation.

Lance again took off his hat and wiped the sweat of anxiety from his dripping forehead. "Whatever differences of opinion I may have with your company, I have no lack of esteem personally, McCloud, for you, sir, by heaven! How many men did you bring?"

"And whatever wheels you Crawling Stone ranchers may have in your heads on the subject of irrigation," returned McCloud, evenly, "I have no lack of esteem personally, Mr. Dunning, for you. I brought 100."

"Do you want to take charge here? I'm Frank, sir; you understand this game and I don't."

"Suppose we look the situation over; meantime, all our supplies have to be brought across from the Y. What should you think, Mr. Dunning, of putting all the teams you can at that end of the work?"

"Every man that can be spared from the river shall go at it. Come over here and look at our work and judge for yourself."

They rode to where the forces assembled by Lance were throwing up embankments and riprapping. There was hurried running to and fro, a violent dragging about of willows, and a good deal of shouting.

Dunning, with some excitement, watched McCloud's face to note the effect of the activity on him, but McCloud's expression, naturally reserved, reflected nothing of his views on the subject. Dunning waved his hand at the lively scene. "They've been at it all night. How many would you take away, sir?"

"You might take them all away, as far as the river is concerned," said McCloud, after a moment.

"What? Hell! All?"

"They are not doing anything, are they, but running around in a circle? And those fellows over there might as well be making mud pies as riprapping at that point. What we need there is a mattress and sandbags—and plenty of them. Bill," directed McCloud in an even tone of business as he turned to Dancing, "see how quick you can get your gangs over here with what sacks they can carry and walk fast. If you will put your men on horses, Mr. Dunning, they can help like everything. That bank won't last a great while the way the river is getting under it now." Dancing wheeled like an elephant on his bronco and clattered away through the mud. Lance Dunning, recovering from his surprise, started his men back for the wagons, and McCloud, dismounting, walked with him to the water's edge to plan the fight for what was left of the strip in front of the alfalfa fields.

When Whispering Smith got back to the house he was in good humor.

He joined Dickie and Marion in the dining room, where they were drinking coffee. Afterward Dickie ordered horses saddled and the three rode to the river. Up and down the bank as far as they could see in the misty rain, men were moving slowly about—more men, it seemed to Dickie, than she had ever seen together in her life. The confusion and the noise had disappeared. No one appeared to hurry, but every one had something to do, and, from the gangs who with sledges were sinking "dead-men" among the trees to hold the cables of the mattress that was about to be sunk, and the Japs who were diligently preparing to float and load it, to the men that were filling and wheeling the sandbags, no one appeared excited. McCloud joined the visitors for a few moments, and then went back to where Dancing and his men on life-lines were guiding the mattress to its resting place. In spite of the gloom of the rain, which Whispering Smith said was breaking, Dickie rode back to the house in much better spirits with her two guests; and when they came from luncheon the sun, as Smith had predicted, was shining.

"Oh, come out!" cried Dickie, at the door. Marion had a letter to write and, went upstairs, but Whispering Smith followed Dickie. "Does everything you say come true?" she demanded as she stood in the sunshine.

She was demure with light-heartedness and he looked at her approvingly. "I hope nothing I may say ever will come true unless it makes you happy," he answered, lightly. "It would be a shame if it did anything else."

She pointed two accusing fingers at him. "Do you know what you promised last night? You have forgotten already! You said you would tell me why my leghorns are eating their feathers off."

"Let me talk with them."

"Just what I should like. Come on!" said Dickie, leading the way to the chicken-yard. "I want you to see my bantams, too. I have three of the dearest little things. One is setting. They are over the way. Come see them first. And, oh, you must see my new game chickens. Truly, you never saw anything as handsome as Caesar—he's the rooster; and I have six pullets. Caesar is perfectly superb."

When the two reached the chicken house Dickie examined the nest where she was setting the bantam hen. "This miserable hen will not set," she exclaimed in despair. "See here, Mr. Smith, she has left her nest again and is scratching around on the ground. Isn't it a shame? I've tied a cord around her leg so she couldn't run away, and she is hobbling around like a scrub pony."

"Perhaps the eggs are too warm," suggested her companion. "I have had great success in cases like this with powdered ice—not using too much, of course; just shave the ice gently and rub it over the eggs one at a time; it will often result in refreshing the attention of the hen."

Dickie looked grave. "Aren't you ashamed to make fun of me?"

Whispering Smith seemed taken aback. "It is really serious business?"

"Of course."

"Very good. Let me watch this hen for a few minutes and diagnose her. You go on to your other chickens. I'll stay here and think."

Dickie went down through the yards. When she came back, Whispering Smith was sitting on a cracker box watching the bantam. The chicken was making desperate efforts to get off Dickie's cord and join its companions in the runway. Smith was eyeing the bantam critically when Dickie rejoined him. "Do you usually," he asked, looking suddenly up, "have success in setting roosters?"

"Now you are having fun with me again."

"No, by heaven! I am not."

"Have you diagnosed the case?"

"I have, and I have diagnosed it as a case of mistaken identity."

"Identity?"

"And misapplied energy. Miss Dickie, you have tied up the wrong bird. This is not a bantam hen at all; this is a bantam rooster. Now that is my judgment. Compare him with the others. Notice how much darker his plumage is—it's the rooster," declared Whispering Smith, wiping the perplexity from his brow. "Don't feel bad, not at all. Cut him loose, Miss Dickie—don't hesitate; do it on my responsibility. Now let's look at the cannibal leghorns—and great Caesar."

SPAIN IS PUSHING MOORISH CAMPAIGN

Reinforcements Have Been Dispatched to Melilla.

Madrid, Sept. 7.—To take part in the campaign against the Moors, the Twelfth division of the Spanish army, consisting of 11,000 men under the command of General Sotomayo, has been ordered to Melilla, Morocco.

Premier Maura explained that the reinforcements had been requested by General Marina because of the extension of his lines of operation. The premier said also that another division might be mobilized immediately.

Advices received from Melilla say the Spanish position at El Arba and Restinga have been reinforced, and that the Moors have partly abandoned Mount Gurugu and are massing at Nador and Zeluan.

SEEKING HIS RELATIVES

Coroner at Toledo Making Inquiries in Case of Albion Newell.

Toledo, O., Sept. 7.—Coroner Hensler has begun efforts to locate relatives of Albion Newell, a machinist, who was killed Saturday night while attempting to stop a runaway team on a downtown street. Letters found in the dead man's possession indicate that he was a member of an English family of some wealth, and was disinherited in his youth.

The latest letter was from Worcestershire, dated December, 1878. It is said that Newell came here from Grand Rapids, Mich. He had about $2,000 deposited in local savings banks.

NO CLUE FOUND

Detroit Police Face a Revolting Murder Mystery.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—Sheriff Gaston and his deputies have dragged Ecorse creek and quizzed residents in the down-river district in hopes of finding some clue to the identity of the decapitated, armless and legless body of a young woman found in the stream early Monday morning, but their efforts have as yet been in vain. The county physicians feel certain that the body had only been in the water a few days, and the age of the victim is estimated to be between twenty and twenty-two years.

SERMONS ON BALL FIELDS.

Chicago Minister Advocates Opening Sunday Games With Prayer.

A sermon would be a fitting opening to each major league baseball game played on Sunday, according to Bruce Barton, son of the Rev. W. E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational church, Oak Park, Chicago. He declared the other night that, although he did not favor Sunday baseball, he thought the plan feasible.

Barton said he had mentioned the matter to some of the prominent ministers of Chicago and also has set the facts before persons connected with the management of major league teams and that in all instances his suggestion had been approved. Barton says that the matter has been approved by both President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Nationals and Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn.

G. B. Shaw's Considerateness.
G. Bernard Shaw, who, according to a story teller, never goes to the theater except to see one of his own plays, was asked recently why he denied himself the pleasure and answered: "You see, I snore so dreadfully that no one near me can sleep with any degree of peace. That is why I do not go to the theater."

Mr. Wolcott, is pleased to announce to his customers that he has secured the agency for Zemo, the best known remedy for the positive and permanent cure of Eczema, Pimples, Dandruff, Blackheads, Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Zemo gives instant relief and cures by destroying the germ that causes the disease, leaving a clean, healthy skin. See display and photos of cures made by Zemo at F. E. Wolcott's drug store. Ask for sample.

There is nothing better we know of for all kinds of troubles than Pineules. These pills are really excellent in cases of weak back and backache, pains in the neck of the bladder, rheumatic pain and kindred ailments, due to weakened, disordered kidneys. Sold at Lytle's drug store.

Where Man Has Been Tamed.
Now comes the woman of many husbands, a suggestion that man is conquered. Miss Charlotte Mansfield, who has returned to London from a trip through central Africa in which she covered 2,000 miles in 156 days, found two tribes in Umtali chieftained by women. The men are the slave sex, if Miss Mansfield be not a humorist. Every woman chief has from three to ten husbands. The men do all the work, and the women enforce the rude laws for government and designate the officials.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.
Sweet singer, thou that swept the poet's strings
To strains of joy and humor blithe and gay
And pictured for us in thy genial lay
The sunny side of life and all its things,
Pathos and fun are in thy page twin kings.
Laughter to drive the spirit's cares away,
Tears to assuage the pains it cannot stay.
From both a faith ennobled, strengthened, springs.
Bard of the soul's dim twilight fancies thou—
Minstrel of grace and hope and sympathy!
Though manhood's years had wreathed in gray thy brow,
To youth's full chanson yet was tuned thy lyre.
Thy locks were silvered, but still shone in thee
The rich hued glow of boyhood's morning fire.

GOOD HUNTING IN RUSHVILLE

Organizers of Moose Are Finding Lots of Good Game Right Here in the City.

EXPECT A LARGE LODGE HERE

Big game is not very plentiful in some parts of this State, but organizers, Hartman and Buchanan of the "Moose" are hunting very successfully. Rushville seems to be just about due for the class of lodge that the Moose represent, and there can be little question but that the lodge that is formed here will be a big one. It is by no means the intention of the organizers to hunt out Tom Dick or Harry, but they have their plans well defined. They will submit every name to a committee of citizens who will pass upon the standing of each man enrolled and if of good character he will be welcomed into the order. Those who may not come up to the membership requirements will have their fee returned and spared any humiliation. The Moose are very particular about their membership and are as exclusive in their lodge as are some of the older orders.

DON'T BUY THEIR CLOTH

Gang of Swindlers Said to be Working Near Here.

The persons accused of working a cloth swindle in various parts of Indiana are said to be in and around Rushville. It is alleged that they sell what purports to be genuine woolen cloth at much less than the store charges. After the purchase is made it is found that the cloth is more or less cotton. Then it is that the purchaser says things about the grafters.

Woman at Presentation Exercises Taken to House Nearby.

Mrs. Joe Wampler of Humboldt, Ill., fainted in the court house this morning. She had been in the sheriff's office where the Smith gallery presentation exercises were in progress and it is thought the fact that the room was crowded and a little hot caused her to become sick. She left the room and went out into the corridor, where she fainted. She was taken to the home of Mrs. William King, who is a relative and was soon all right again. She was in this city to attend the Hilligoss reunion.
